Taking inspiration from the quintessential British gentlemen's clubs, Reform Social & Grill at the Mandeville Hotel in Marylebone set the bar high for London's gastro-pub scene when it opened in 2012. Set in the luxurious boutique hotel, the restaurant has since catapulted itself into delicious fame — serving the best British-themed food with consistent classic Reform style and finesse. It's certainly distanced itself from the unwelcome moniker of another "restaurant in a hotel".

Which is why we're super excited to see the launch of their new Autumn/Winter menu — those shorter days, chilly winds and hungry stomachs can be forgotten about if you make the straight and narrow for Reform. And trust us, you'll be thankful we advised you of such thrilling menu modifications.

The seasonal sharing platters are one of our favourites — what's not to love about whetting the appetite with a Fisherman's platter or a charcuterie-style Butcher's spread? No wait, perhaps the devilish Baked Cheese platter will make you drool more —either way, we know we've peaked your interest.

Prefer to savour a starter all to yourself? Look no further than the succulent Hendrick's gin salmon with a tartare garnish, or the locally-sourced, crispy south coast squid.

Now let's move on to the main event to really amp it up: Reform's fish and chips are a notorious standout and won't fail to satisfy, and vegetarians are well-catered for with a Tomato Chilli & Potato Dumplings making a pleasing alternative to those run-of-the-mill mushroom risottos.

Feeling carnivorous? Reform's famous Jasper grill is in fine form serving up everything from perfectly seared Butcher's steaks to Reform's special burgers of the week. Last we forget about the talk of the town: glazed beef shortrib with walnut, beetroot and horseradish — a dish this good deserves its own hotel.

And we all know you have room for dessert —it's only obligatory to keep the sugar levels up in this chilly weather anyway, right? We recommend the decadently squidgy hot chocolate pudding or the oh-so-British apple and berry crumble, but any of the five delicious options will leave you equally full and warm inside this winter.

Need we make a guess where you'll be dining this season?
